

IDSA World Health Day 2011: Combating Antimicrobial Resistance Congressional Briefing

2 p.m. – 3 p.m. ET

April 7, 2011

SR-253 (Russell Senate Office Building), Washington D.C.

Topic	Speaker
Moderator	James M. Hughes, MD, FIDSA President Infectious Diseases Society of America
Antimicrobial Resistance: A Growing Public Health Threat	Rima Khabbaz, MD, FIDSA Deputy Director, Infectious Diseases Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
Ricky Lannetti: An Antibiotic Resistance Story	Theresa Drew Ricky's mother
The Continued Assault of Antibiotic Resistance	Ruth Lynfield, MD, FIDSA Minnesota State Epidemiologist
Challenges and Opportunities in Antibiotic Drug Discovery: A Perspective from the Pharmaceutical Industry	Paul Miller, Ph.D. Vice President and Chief Scientific Officer, Antibacterials Research Unit Pfizer Inc.
The Benefits of Antimicrobial Stewardship	Neil Fishman, MD Director, Department of Healthcare Epidemiology and Infection Control and Director, Antimicrobial Management Program, University of Pennsylvania Health System; and Past President of the Society for Healthcare Epidemiology of America (SHEA)
Key Recommendations from IDSA's Policy Paper: Combating Antimicrobial Resistance: Policy Recommendations to Save Lives	Brad Spellberg, MD, FIDSA Associate Professor of Medicine Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA Los Angeles Biomedical Research Institute
Questions from the Audience	